Invitations: On dark blue paper, with gold paint used as ink.

Star Hunt:
If there are juniors present, have a star hunt after the order of a peanut hunt, with stars of every color and size hidden here and there.

Stars:
Cut out pictures of celebrities from magazines and papers, but cut off the names. Include anyone at all who is in the public eye at the moment. Number the pictures and hang around the room. Spend about 15 minutes in guessing the names. Award a prize to the winner.

Fortune telling:
Have an astrologer whose flowing robes are well covered with stars tell fortunes in a booth where but one or two at a time can be admitted.

Journey to the Stars:
Name several tables for the planets: Mercury, Venus, Earth, Mars, Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus, Neptune, and for the stars—North Star, Sirius, and Betelgeuse. Attach a name to each table, and place some article on it the number of which can be guessed; a can of beans on one, the number of yards of twine in a ball on another; the length of a stick, the number of seeds in an apple, the quantity of water in a pail, the number of seeds in a saucer, the number of seeds in a pumpkin, the number of words on a page, etc., etc. on the others. A prize goes to the one coming nearest to the truth.

Fame:
Give each guest a pencil and paper. Have names of famous persons in a basket and let each guest draw a name. At a signal let each one read the name which he has drawn, and then give three minutes in which to write a brief biography or interesting fact about each "star".

Table:
Cover the table with dark blue paper and decorate with stars of all sizes in gold and silver. Have star cookies and crescent sandwiches.

Program:
Star songs and readings, or perhaps a "fake" interview with some star after the fashion of radio.

(This is adapted, in part, from "My Book of Parties".)